Anonymoose Password Manager User Manual

Jaclyn Bramlette, Jesstina Farrell, Elizabeth Porter, Zack Starrett

Capstone Project Spring, 2021

The University of West Florida

04/30/2021

CIS4592

Dr. Bernd Owsnicki-Klewe

Make sure to follow Installation Instructions before reading this document.

Thank you for considering our product. The Anonymoose Password Manager application checks for reused passwords and generates random passwords. The Anonymoose Password Manager ensures the use of secure password guidelines by creating a central location for all of your passwords and having a random password generator so you do not have to come up with a password that might be easily guessed.

Using Anonymoose Password Manager assures that you use complex passwords so that your accounts will be difficult to compromise. Your privacy is very important so using this application will help you with protecting it.

The following manual will help you use the Anonymoose Password Manager.

- Creating an account
    - Enter 2 or C to create an account
        - Enter your email address
        - Enter your password
        - Confirm your password
- Logging in
    - Enter 1 or L to login
        - Enter your username (email address)
        - Enter your password
- Available Options
    - Enter 1 to view all usernames and passwords.
        - This option allows you to view all of your usernames and passwords in the application.
            - Display Site Name and Password for each account
    - Enter 2 to add a username and password.
        - This option allows you to add a new username and password.
            - Enter your site name
            - Would you like to generate a new random password? Enter y for yes, enter n for no:
            - Enter y
                - This option allows the program to generate a complex password.
                    - It will display "Your password for site is:" and will save this password to your account.
                    - This option will also delete your displayed passwords after 20 seconds.

- ● Enter n
  - ○ This option allows you to come up with your own complex password and verifies that you haven't reused it.
- ○ Enter 3 to delete a username and password.
  - ■ This option allows you to delete a username and password record.
    - ● Enter the site that you would like to delete the password for
    - ● Password deleted confirmation
- ○ Enter 4 to update a username and password.
  - ■ This option allows you to modify a username and password record.
    - ● Enter the site that you would like to update the password for
      - ○ Enter g if you would like to randomly generate a password
        - ■ Your new password for site is confirmation
          - ● Your password has been updated successfully confirmation
        - ■ This option will also delete your displayed password after 20 seconds.
      - ○ Enter any other key to set your own password
        - ■ Enter complex password
- ○ Enter 5 to delete your account.
  - ■ This option allows you to completely delete your account.
    - ● All stored usernames and passwords will be deleted and you will be immediately logged out. Are you sure you want to delete your account?
      - ○ Enter y for yes
      - ○ Enter any other key for no
- ○ Enter any other key at the menu prompt to exit the program
  - ■ The program will automatically logout the current user and exit

Thank you again for choosing Anonymoose Password Manager. We hope you enjoy our application and we look forward to any feedback you may have on improvements.